The London Times publishes the substance of the notes drawn up by the Northern powers, who don't object to Napoleon's becoming an Elective Emperor, but announce the determination to resist any attempt to found or perpetuate an Imperial dynasty. In the event of Napoleon's becoming an Elective Emperor, the Northern powers would demand assurances that existing treaties would be observed, and that he would confine his rule to the present territorial limits of France, and explain the nature of the political doctrines of his Government. They profess to look upon Napoleon only as vention. It is the duty of democrats to a temporary and provisional power, and recognize the House of Bourbon as the sole legitimate dynasty of France.

This expressed determination of the Northern powers, has caused much chagrin to the Bonapartist party.

PIERCE AND KING.

The Democratic National Convention, after a laborious session of five days, has presented to the people the name of Gen. This body, which has been in session at Franklin Pierce, of New Hampshire, as the Boston for twenty- seven days, adjourned on candidate for President, and William R. Tensday to meet at Indianapolis, Ind , in King of Alabama, as the candidate for Vice sies of the city were generously extended to the members. The Traveller thus sums up the efforts of Congress and the Senate, at honor of the championship of the great that high position.

Pierce is a lawyer by profession, and has filled several public offices with distinguished ability. For several years he represented his county in the State legislature. From 1833 to 1837 he occupied a seat in Congress, and while a member of that body was called by the unanimous voice of New Hampshire to the The "Tract Society of the M. E. Church," U. S. Senate. Although the youngest man in that assemblage of wise and experienced statesmen, he soon won the respect, esteem and regard of all. Parodoxical as it may appear, it was his great popularity and strength, that defeated him. His rivals were determined that if they could not succeed, he at least should not be nominated. They have succeeded in setting aside a man telligent and honorable whig in the Union-In this city there are hundreds of Fillmore whigs who had determined to vote for Gen. Cass, in preference to Gen. Scott, had they both been nominated. The convention has, however thought proper to nominate another individual, who though a stranger to many is not wholly "naknown to fame." Gen. Pierce comes of good stock. His father Gen. Benjamin Pierce was once Governer of New Hampshire and an officer in the late war, What is highly favorable to the character of Mexico. From what I can learn, from those interested in the project, I have no doubt but that the Mine Hill Railroad, which is now being located to Ashland, will then be connected with a road to Shamokin, all of which will be put under contract in the course of a month or two. The Sunbury and Erie Rail Road is begining to be looked upon as an important work, and all are anxious to see it constructed A vigorous effort will be made to get individual subscription for stock but I cannot think, judging from the past, that any thing like the som required can be raised in that way, although some of the friends of this improvement say they will voice, to do something before long.
